VOLUME XII

MARION, CRITTENDEN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, JUNE 25, 1891.

NUMBER I

Paducah is enough of a city to sustain free summer night band concerts in her parks.

The German Emperor has written to Queen Victoria criticizing the Prince of Wales for his connection with the baccarat.

Mr. Cleveland left more than a hundred millions in the Treasury. There is now less than one million. Comment is unnecessary.

While in Henderson Hon. A. T. Wood repented under the "vine and fig tree" of Hon. John Young Brown. Such an example of courtesy or hospitality is worthy of imitation, and shows that the natures of men need not be soured by partisanship.

The Ohio Republican Convention last week nominated McKinley for Governor. Sherman was not indorsed except in the plenum. He requested his friends not to bring up the fight between him and Foraker for Senator in the convention.

A number of the friends of the new constitution held a conference at Lexington Friday, and to arrange for a systematic canvass in behalf of the new instrument. Senator Blackburn was chairman of the meeting. An executive committee was appointed to take charge of the work.

Secretary Foster proposed, while keeping up the purchase of bullion, to stop the coining of silver because the treasury vaults are already filled with dollars held against outstanding silver certificates; but the President refused to hearten, not caring to arouse the silver men any more than his party has already done. Mr. Garrison has been out West.

Judge Woods' praise of the new constitution—the work of eighty-two Democrats and eighteen Republicans—is the redeeming feature of his speeches. If the Democrats can make such a praiseworthy constitution—one that gives the cormorant corporations a black eye—they can continue to run State affairs, and nourish a laudable ambition to fill the Presidential chair next year.

Some years ago the Legislature of Kentucky passed a bill empowering this county to erect a across a public road. This was a portentous bill, and the people of state, being so deeply interested were anxious to pay the one and legislators $5,000 per day while passing such bills. The new constitution abolishes just such local legislation, leaving it with the county courts, where it belongs, and will thereby save the tax payers hundreds of dollars.

If the new constitution is adopted the railroads will have to pay certain debts that are not now readily paid, as some of the readers of the Press are ready to testify. At present the roads may run over and kill stock and pay or not pay, just as they choose unless the farmer, whose hog or cow is killed, goes before the proper court and has a receiver appointed for the road, and has it run in his interest until his hog is paid for. Under the new constitution the cars, tools, etc., can be attacked and sold for the debt, just as any individual's can. This is fair and right, and the argument made by opposers of the constitution that the stoppage of trains would be great inconvenience to the public is too thin for consideration. No trains will be stopped, for the existence of the power to stop them will bring the desire to pay the debt before the train reaches the station. This is no mean point, for there are people living in Crittenden county with just such debts unpaid, notwithstanding our courts have given them judgment.

Messrs. N. E. Cott & Co. of New York, have offered a handsome price for six thousand boxes of American tinplate to be delivered at any time within a year. Not one of the great American tinplate manufacturing companies has accepted the standing offer. The truth is, there is no American tinplate makers. In St. Louis the ex-Republican Congress man has employed a Welshman and two boys to make tinplate, and he can not make a sufficient quantity to supply small tin cans for the high tariff club next year. The Chicago Tribune, a protective organ, has grown weary of so much talk about the making of tinplate, and called upon the party mouthpieces to "stop" lying and build some tinplate mills." The New York Tribune published editorially "that the production of tinplate in this country had been so large as to compel the Welsh trusts to shut down." The Tribune then proceeded to investigate, and the next day said: "That assertion was a mistake and should never have been made."

NEWS NOTES.

John Dury murdered his mother in law in a quarrel over a child near Benton, Ill.

A monument to the soldiers of the Confederacy was unveiled at Parsons last week.

Heavy rain storms in Iowa and Illinois have done great damage to crops and cattle.

Gov. Pattison has vetoed the compulsory education bill passed by the Pennsylvania Legislature.

Seven soldiers are on trial at Walla Walla, Washington, for lynching Agent Hunt, who killed a soldier.

The United States grand jury is examining into the alleged violations of the interstate commerce law at Springfield, Ill.

Twenty two thousand mill operatives in Fall River, Mass., will be asked to accept a 10 per cent reduction in wages.

Out of eighteen members of the Georgia Press Association eleven are for Cleveland, two for Hill and three non-committal.

At the recent Ohio Republican State Convention the enthusiasm for Blaine was unbounded, with Harrison nowhere.

Gen. Grosvenor, of Ohio, has been appointed an agent of the Treasury Department to visit Europe in the interest of the world's fair.

President Battell has been authorized by the lower house of the Cuban Congress to levy a forced loan of $20,000,000 to carry on the war.

H. J. Shultes, of Washington City has been appointed a member of the Immigration Commission to visit Europe to investigate immigration affairs.

Bernard Glandi has been sentenced to the penitentiary for one year for attempting to bribe a juror in the Hennessy murder case at New Orleans.

Gen. John M. Schofield, Commander in Chief of the armies of the United States, was married last week at Keokuk, Iowa, to Miss Georgia Kilbourn.

In Franklin county last week Mr. Charles Jenkins, a farmer, was instantly killed by a trap which he was preparing for chicken thieves in his henery.

A freight train near Corning, Iowa, had a narrow escape from plunging down into a river, the bridge over which had been carried away by a cloud burst.

Ex-Senator McDonald is growing weaker. President Harrison sent him a message of sympathy, which was gratefully acknowledged by Mrs. McDonald.

Col. Pollock Barber has finally declined to make the race for Governor of Kentucky on the People's party ticket. He deserves the right to change his mind.

A report has reached New York that President Hippolyte, of Hayti, has been assassinated. Stories of rightious atrocities upon the enemies of Hippolyte have also been received.

A waterspout flooded the Conception silver mines in the mountains of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, last week. Twenty three bodies have been recovered and the pecuniary loss will be heavy.

Robert Marley, collector for David Dudley Field, the New York lawyer, disappeared Monday and he was found two days afterwards, dead and dumb, having been drugged and robbed, so he says.

The Hungarian coke workers in the Connellsburg region are suffering from a malady resembling the European "black leg." There are two hundred cases reported and the disease is spreading.

Consul Corte has made a report in which he says the Italians lynch at New Orleans were not members of any secret society, but were hanged and shot simply because they were Italians and competed with American labor.

The prosecution of the jury bribers in the Hennessy case at New Orleans is making rapid progress. The Chicago Tribune, a protective organ, has grown weary of so much talk about the making of tinplate, and called upon the party mouthpieces to "stop" lying and build some tinplate mills."

The steamer City of Richmond was docked on her arrival at Liverpool, to examine the damage caused by her fire at sea. When the hatchways were removed smoke and flames burst out, and it required a flooding of her hold to extinguish the fire, which was so intense that the decks were scorched.

SURPLUS GONE.

Only a Million Dollars in the Treasury.

Washington, January 18.—The Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Foster, found it convenient to go to his home in Folsom, Ohio, today to remain for a week or two. A few hours after his departure the United States Treasurer issued a statement showing that the cash balance in the Treasury is $43,415,000, of which $21,029,000 is on deposit with National banks, and $20,250,000 is in fractional silver, deducting which the net cash balance is but $1,255,000, which is the lowest figure yet reached.

When it is considered that millions of dollars appropriated by the last Congress still remain unpaid, the people can easily see what a financial strain the Government is placed in. Before Congress met there was a surplus in the Treasury of over one hundred millions. Now all of that has been swept away, in fact to all the receipts of the Government since then, to say nothing of the indebtedness, made by the last session of Congress, which must be paid or repudiated. Since Congress adjourned the Attorney General and the Treasury officials have had their heads together constantly, devising ways and means to repudiate the large appropriations made by their Republican friends, in the House and Senate, and in many cases they have succeeded. Their success, however, will be but short lived, as the debts contracted must be paid this year or next.

Since Secretary Foster assumed the Treasury Secretarship, he has been daily besieged by claimants urging the settlement of their accounts legally ordered paid to them by the Legislative branch of the Government. He has put them off from day to day, hoping, Micawber style, for something to turn up that will relieve the embarrassing situation. Instead of this the financial affairs of the Treasury have been getting worse, the revenues have been daily decreasing, and the Secretary concluded that the best thing he could do for the present to escape the Government creditors was to leave the city for his country home and there ponder over the hard lines he has to endure as guardian of an immense stone building, with nothing in the vaults but silver dollars, kept in store as security to redeem silver certificates.

Pretty, Whether True or Not.

Louisville Post.

During Col. John Young Brown's residence in Washington City, while he was a member of Congress he had a little experience which neither he nor his friends have ever been able to understand. He received a number of communications from an unknown correspondent, inclosing a powder carefully wrapped up. The stuff was recommended to him as a remedy for rheumatism, malaris, etc.

Of course Col. Brown did not try the physic, but threw it away without finding out what it was. By and by he received another letter, in the same handwriting as the other, asking him to come to a certain street corner, at a certain hour on a specified afternoon.

The congressman's curiosity was aroused, and not being in the habit of stopping on account of any danger he donned his overcoat and went to the appointed place.

Promptly at the appointed time a woman heavily veiled came along.

A policeman near by had evidently noticed something suspicious in her conduct, as he stepped forward just in time to prevent her making an assault upon Col. Brown. She was placed under arrest, and, proving to be a lunatic was locked up.

About three years ago the ex-Congressman had appealed in a lawsuit in Morganfield and had made a fearless appeal to the jury in prosecution of a desperate murderer. The verdict was being waited for and Col. Brown was conversing with some friends and standing near where the prisoner was sitting. Without a moment's warning he despatched a spray to his feet, and was just in the act of plunging a dirk into Col. Brown's heart, when one of the court officers seized the fellow's arm and prevented a terrible murder. It is related that Col. Brown was the only cool man in the room during the excitement which ensued, and had considerable difficulty in saving his life.

Secretary Noble, it is stated, will undertake a thorough investigation of the irregularities in the Pension Bureau.

For a man or woman to be like a Christian at church and a devil at home, means that he or she is a hypocrite. Anybody that can control themselves among strangers and be smiling and polite to others, can do the same at home if they try. To be cross and boorish in the family partakes of the lowest nature of the wicked animals. There are many men considered gentlemen by those on the outside who deserve to be hung for the way they treat their wives.—Circuit Rider.

A New York newspaper asserts that President Beers, of the New York Life Insurance Company will be "whitewashed" by the policy holders; also that the State Insurance Department will whitewash the corporation and its methods in the forthcoming investigation.

FIFTY DROWNED.

Victims of the Mexico Cloud Burst.

St. Louis, June 18.—Additional particulars of the terrible catastrophe which occurred on Monday last near the mining city of Catorice, in the State of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, are to the effect that the cloud burst on Conception mountain, and a great stream of water poured down the mountain side, sweeping everything in its course. The habitations occupied by the miners were swept away, and the tunnel of the Guadalupe mine filled with water, drowning several miners, who were working inside. A number of people who were living in cliff dwellings were buried alive. At Los Cruces and El Potrero, on one side of the mountain, and Los Catorice on the other, fifteen dead bodies have been recovered, and there are believed to be many more.

The mining companies losses are heavy. Large quantities of high grade metal were carried away by the flood at the Conception property. Hundreds of pack animals drowned and roads destroyed. These are the meager details so far received from this remote district, though people here knowing the remote locality believe that there, must have been at least fifty lives lost.

The Kentucky Staple.

The distilleries in the vicinity of Louisville have all closed down, with the exception of one or two small ones. Some idea of the amount of whisky made this year in that county may be had when it is known that one of the distilleries in the city limits has stored in its warehouses 47,000 barrels. It is estimated that there are stored in the various distilleries of Louisville just now 200,000 barrels, or 9,000,000 gallons of whisky. Most of this is sour mash. This would be equal to 540,000,000 drinks which at ten cents a drink would be worth $5,400,000,000. In this internal revenue district, which comprises several counties outside of this, there are more than 300,000 more barrels of whisky stored. This would be sufficient to float the largest steamer ever built, but it is unnecessary to say this whisky will not be used for any such purpose.—Louisville Post.

More Room Needed.

Frankfort, June 16.—Deputy Warren Sam O. Nunn, of the Eddyville penitentiary, was in the city today and took charge of a gang of fifty convicts, destined for the Eddyville penitentiary. Mr. Nunn says the Eddyville penitentiary has but 414 cells and that the fifty new convicts will make a total of 414 convicts within the walls there, necessitating the doubling up with a few of the with a few of the number to make provision for all. The penitentiaries here and at Eddyville now are both crowded, beyond their capacity, and the next Legislature will find it imperative to make an additional cell house either at the prison or at Eddyville.

Four Men Drowned.

Paducah, Ky., June 19.—While boating in a skiff at Golconda, Ill., last evening, Will Hoechisler and Will Kreipe, white, and two colored men were drowned. The boat was caught by a passing storm and capsized in midriver, and all were swept away before relief arrived.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

We are authorized to announce J. R. SUMMERS, to represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Having been nominated by the Citizens Convention of Crittenden and Livingston counties, I declare myself a candidate for the next Legislature of Kentucky, subject to the action of the voters of Crittenden and Livingston counties at the August election.

A. S. Johnson.

We are authorized and requested to announce J. A. RUDY, of Providence, Webster county, a candidate for State Senator, from the 4th District, composed of the counties of Caldwell, Crittenden and Webster, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce P. C. STEPHENS, of Crittenden county, a candidate for State Senator from the 4th District, composed of Caldwell, Crittenden and Webster, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR JAILOR.

To the voters of Crittenden county.

Having been appointed by the County Judge as Jailer until the next regular election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of W. L. Cook I am now a candidate for the office of said election subject to the action of the Republican party. Since my appointment I have tried to discharge the duties of the office faithfully and if elected promise a continuance of the same earnest effort to do so. Your support will be greatly appreciated.

Joseph W. Adams.

We are authorized to announce D. M. HALL a candidate for Jailer of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Democratic party. He will appreciate your vote and influence.

We are authorized to announce GEORGE BOSTON a candidate for Jailer of Crittenden county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Public Speaking.

Judge T. J. Nunn will address the people on the new constitution at the following times and places:

Dycusburg, Saturday, June 27. Golonds Ferry, Saturday, July 18. Shady Grove, Saturday, July 11. Carrsville, Saturday, July 25. Tolu, Friday, July 24.

Hon. Josiah Harris, Prohibition candidate for Governor, will address the people at Marion on Friday, June 26, at 2 o'clock p.m., and at Princeton the same night.

An earthquake shock was felt at Charleston, S. C., Tuesday night.

The usual weekly bulletin: Secretary Noble will resign if Raum don't.

Saturday two and a half million dollars in gold was shipped from New York to Europe.

In passing judgment on the new constitution compare it with the old and not with your ideal.

The Anaconda mine, at Butte, Mont., has been sold to an English syndicate for $25,000,000.

John L. Sullivan offers to fight Slavin for $10,000. It will be a great day when John L. meets his match.

The newspapers have Mr. Blaine in good health again. This may or may not be good news to Mr. Harrison.

The Nashville Savings Bank suspended payment Monday; and the Florence National Bank, Florence, Ala., is in the same box.

Rev Sam Small has sued a brother preacher, Rev J. Wesley Hill, for libel in charging that Small misused the funds of the Utah University.

Hon. Walter Evans, Judge Tinsley and Congressman Wilson, three of the prominent Republicans of the State, are making speeches against the new constitution.

King, the murderer of lawyer Polk at Memphis, is trying to escape justice by pleading the insanity dodge. Oh, insanity, what crimes are committed in thy name.

Senator Callom, of Illinois, has announced that he is a candidate for President. When the Republicans select their candidate they will not Cullom from the Sucker State.

American laborers assaulted a gang of Indians in a contractor's camp near St Louis Monday and drove them off. The same day 1200 Italian immigrants landed in New York.

An agricultural paper at Chicago has received reports from the wheat harvest in several States. It estimates the average yield in Kentucky at ten to fifteen bushels per acre.

According to the report of the Assessors, Kentucky farmers raised last year 166,811,946 pounds of tobacco, 370,642 tons of hay, 41,971,822 bushels of corn, 6,975,749 bushels of wheat.

It transpires that Hon. A. T. Wood, Republican candidate for Governor, was outspoken against the new constitution two weeks before the convention which nominated him for Governor and endorsed the new constitution.

Hon. John S. Rhea had evidently made his arrangements to stump Kentucky this year, and failing to get the nomination for Attorney General he is making speeches against the new constitution.

An express train on the Missouri Pacific road was attacked by a constable and held for three hours at Echols, Colorado, to collect a debt of $17,50 the road had neglected to pay. Moral: The trampamer of negligence can stop the big as well as the little citizen—in some States.

Dr. Erwin, who was suspended from the Presidency of the State Alliance a few months ago, has decided to accept the nomination of the Third party for Governor. He is also a candidate for State Senator in his district. The doctor seems determined to let no honors go floating around loose.

Ex-United States Senator Joseph E. McDonald died at his home in Indianapolis Sunday night. He was a man of sterling qualities, and as a patriot and statesman he stood high in the estimation of his countrymen. He was a champion of the Indiana Democracy. He was born in Ohio in 1819; was admitted to the bar in 1844; was elected to Congress in 1848, and was a United States Senator from 1857 to 1881.

Congressman Wilson, of West Virginia one of the ablest of the Democratic leaders in the fight for Tariff Reform, will edit the Tariff Reform Department of the St Louis Republic, aided by all the prominent tariff reformers of the country. It will be a great feature of the Weekly Republic (issued in two parts, one Tuesday and one Friday) which is only ONE DOLLAR A year. Send for a sample copy, which is sent free.

T. J. Nunn, of Marion, is mentioned as a probable candidate for circuit judge in this district—Marion Sun.

Judge Nunn is eminently qualified for the position. As a man he is clean and upright, sober and discreet, as a lawyer he ranks with the best at the bar of the circuit. It's equable temperament, his analytic mind, his fine judgment and thorough knowledge of the law, arm him exceedingly well for the bench. Should he be a candidate his own county will give him practically a unanimous vote, and should he be elected he will add to the good name and reputation of the bench in this district.

They Are for It.

A PRESS representative called up on the members of the Marion bar for their positions on the new constitution, and the following was the result:

I think that I am for it. Since I have read and re-read it, I think it is an improvement on the old one. Still there are some objectionable features.—J. G. Rochester.

I have not read it, but I am for it. It's a better constitution than the one we have.—W. I. Cruse.

I am for it. I have read it twice. I don't see how any laboring man can afford to vote against it.—W. J. Debow.

I like it better than I do the old. Three things that now need constitutional provisions, namely, corporations, railroads and municipalities, were in their infancy when the old was adopted, and our experience with them since that day has taught us the wisdom of making provisions for their government in our organic law.—S. Hodge.

I am for it, while I think it could be better. I think it is much better than the old.—A. C. Moore.

Yes sir. I have read the new constitution from one end to the other and think it is decidedly better than the old. It effectually settles local legislation, which consumes a large per cent of the legislature's time; it taxes banks just the same as it taxes individuals, which is fair and right; while it treats railroads and other corporations fairly, it curbs their greed; it does away with taxing people to build railroads; it provides for a secret ballot. These are a few things that make it worthy of adoption. There are others that time and experience will prove to be good features.—C. S. Nunn.

I have no read the entire document, but so far as I have examined I think it is an improvement on the old and shall vote for it.—J. W. Blue, Jr.

I have just commenced reading the new instrument and have not digested enough to say whether I am for or against it, when I am for it, I will give you my views.—L. H. James.

Storms were reported Saturday in various sections of the country, but Kentucky escaped with but little damage. At Bevier, in Muhlenburg county, seven houses were destroyed and one life was lost. The Methodist church in Lewiston, Hancock county, was wrecked, barns were blown down and one man was killed. Wheat and corn were washed out in Graves county, and some damage was done in Daviess. Kansas was the heaviest sufferer. There was some loss of life, some loss of property and great damage to crops. Fort

Scott was deluged by a cloud burst; Arkansas City was struck by a cyclone; Emporia was shaken by a tornado, and Chanute was damaged by a plain, hard blow. In Missouri the loss is principally around Osceola, where crops were damaged to the extent of $500,000. In Illinois there is some wind-wrecked country. A cyclone struck the town of Elizabethtown, and several buildings were blown away.

A tornado passed through Hancock county Saturday, doing great damage to crops, fences and barns. David Ray, a young man, was killed in the debris of a falling barn.

A cyclone passed through Monroe and Metcalfe counties Saturday, tearing down buildings and destroying crops. A number of people were injured but none killed.

Death of C. G. Colinsneil.

The writer of this paragraph has just heard of the death of Charles G. Colinsneil, brother of Capt. W. P. Colinsneil, the affable conductor of the O. V. railroad, which had event recently occurred in far off Washington. The writer had the pleasure of being associated with the deceased as correspondent of the Galveston News, and Houston Post, Tex., and desires to pay a tribute to the memory of an accomplished journalist and most elegant gentleman, and one in whom were embodied every qualification which goes to make up a most worthy citizen, and we tender our heartfelt sympathies to his brother and other relatives and friends throughout Kentucky.

Edgar McRea, the twenty-year-old son of Mr W. H. McRea, died at his father's home in this place Sunday June 21, after an illness of ten days. He came from school at Hopkinsville a few weeks ago, and went to Blackford and began work for Mr Frank McCoy. He was sick with flux and remained at the banks of the Tradewater river, and thousands of logs from the dense forest along the banks of the river for forty miles can be carried to the saw at a minimum cost. A switch from the O. V. to the mill also carries in logs and carries out the lumber down with flux and remained at that place until Saturday, when he was brought to Marion. He was a promising young man, having just completed his education and began life for himself. The remains were buried in the Marion cemetery Monday. The bereaved family has the sympathy of the entire community in this sad and trying affliction.

We learn from our esteemed friend the Rev A. A. Niles, of Cairo, Ky., that a grand work has been accomplished by Rev J. J. Smith and himself in the counties of Jefferson, Hamilton and Franklin, Ills., and that the Holiness workers will hold the first meeting of the Union Holiness Association at Spring Garden, commencing July 29 and closing the 2d of August. About 500 persons in the counties named have professed the experience of sanctification and more than three hundred others conversion. Some of the blest preachers in Kentucky of the doctrines of sanctification are to accompany Bros Smith and Niles to the Association, among them Revs J. W. Bigham and B. A. Candif, of Henderson.—Henderson Journal.

We acknowledge the receipt of a copy of "Crop Statistics," a circular issued by Hon C. Y. Wilson, Commissioner of Agriculture, showing the amount of corn, hay, wheat and tobacco raised in each county in the State in 1890. There are 19 counties that raise more corn than Crittenden, and 97 that produce less. In the other produce we fall nearer the foot of the column.

The following persons were examined for pensions last Wednesday:

John D. Mott, Crider.
Abraham Milligan, Salem.
John Cullen, Providence.
John Atkins, Providence.
Wm F. Travis, Salem.
Aaron Morgan, Repton.
Arthur Russell, Repton.
John H. Sisk, Clay.
Wm Huff, Caseyville.

Friday a representative of the Pensions spent a few hours in Blackford, the place with so much notoriety, on the O. V. road eleven miles from Marion. Within the last year there has been a great improvement in the little village, and whatever it may have been it does not deserve to be under the tongue of disrepute. A few unfortunate affairs occurred there earlier in its history, but it is now peaceful and pleasant, and promises to be a splendid business point. It is surrounded by a good country, and is some distance from any other town, and considerable business is done there in a small way.

The business houses there are W. H. Hudson, groceries; Sam Morgan, dry goods, with R. L. Morgan as manager; Isaac Scott, groceries; John Simpson, groceries; N. A. Morgan, groceries and postmaster; Joel Taber, dry goods; Jas. Walker, blacksmith. All are doing well and are interested in the growth of the place, and will tell you that Blackford is coming to the front. Alex Woody and Dave Crowell have a new saw and grist mill and are enterprising men, who expect to add improvements to their property. But by far the largest business concern in the place is the Tradewater Lumber Manufacturing Company. Mr. Frank McCoy has charge of this business. A new mill, with all the modern improvements and conveniences for handling logs and lumber, has but recently been put up. It cuts from 25,000 to 30,000 feet of lumber per day, and is moving along in splendid shape. It is located on the banks of the Tradewater river, and thousands of logs from the dense forest along the banks of the river for forty miles can be carried to the saw at a minimum cost. A switch from the O. V. to the mill also carries in logs and carries out the lumber down with flux and remained at that place until Saturday, when he was brought to Marion.
